

NATURAL RESOURCES OF ALBERTA GOING TO THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The government has decided to apply to the privy council for leave to appeal on the question of Alberta's natural resources.

Transfer of Alberta's natural resources was before the Supreme court on a reference heard some time ago, and the court gave judgment. That judgment the Dominion government now seeks to have taken to the privy council for a final ruling on the subject.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED IN RUMANIA.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 25.—Martial law has been declared throughout Rumania as the result of the government's discovery of a plot to bring about the return of former Crown Prince Carol, who was exiled in 1925.

The government is declared to be master of the situation which was revealed as the nation was celebrating the sixth birthday of King Michael, who was made monarch because of Carol's renunciation.

Premier Bratianu has asked all opposition and government ministers to resign on Thursday to declare their attitude in face of Carol's aspirations.

The plot was discovered in letters in the possession of M. Manolescu, a royal adviser yesterday and is now in the Jilava military prison.

We have the first picture of democracy in the babel of tongues that topped work on the Tower.

REMARKABLE WHEAT YIELDS

For ten days now, almost without a break, the thrashing has been going ahead in great shape in the Macleod district and the grain crop is rolling in to the elevators at Macleod. The grain on Friday morning stepped some of the output for a number of the large threshing machines have been going on an average of 120 bushels a day.

Reports of some remarkable yields are now coming in, one farmer north of Macleod has a field of established wheat yielding 45 bushels to the acre and his combine harvester is now cutting it, another north of Macleod has a field of established wheat yielding 45 bushels to the acre and his combine harvester is now cutting it.

THE EVOLUTION OF TRANSPORT

The railway companies of Great Britain have decided to ask for legislation which will give them greatly enlarged powers in the operation of motor transport.

So popular has road transport become, that the competition is seriously affecting the business of the railways. The motor service is almost wholly in the hands of independent operators and the railway managers are of the opinion that a more efficient plan would be to give them a wider control of this branch of transport, which would be subsidiary to, and co-ordinated with, the railway systems.

The evolution of transport is one of the most interesting features of modern times. The remarkable progress of the industrial revolution in Britain was greatly accelerated by Lord Bridgewater's canal system, in the eighteenth century, and by Macadam's road in the early part of last century.

At this period, with the exception of a few turnpikes, the roads were magnificently in many weather where carts could not travel, and in which pack horses made their way with difficulty.

Improved means of transport linked up the manufacturing districts with the cities and the ports, and made possible that spectacular expansion of trade, which, up to the end of the century, has paralleled the growth of the railways.

Steam railways quickly superseded canals and horse-drawn carts, and now the railways are faced by a mobile rival which operates on the common highways of the country, and quickly skirts off the crest of the traffic.

No doubt, strong opposition will be offered to the proposed legislation, but the vast investment in railways, and the well-organized and hundred thousand employees will influence the decision.

Motor transport and railways are component parts of the one service, and should be definitely coordinated.

MORAL FORCE AS A PUNISH

Within a few days, three English women have sworn the Scotch Oath. They were the first women of their country to do so.

In the same way, the transatlantic flight followed each other in rapid succession. Then came the first woman to dare the ocean, many making notable attempts.

Back in history, exploration came on era. Some daring soul who refused to concede defeat, and made his land and others followed.

Then, as now, it was moral force that brought victory. Some had the force in them, and some had it in their hearts. "The Oath" was "If Sealed So can do it, or I will." Moral force became material power, and the world was made in horsepower.

That explains why one man can be stronger than a mob, why a man will follow a competitor where he does not see him, and why a man will follow a competitor where he does not see him, and why a man will follow a competitor where he does not see him.

EVERY COUNTRY A BOOST

Corn Hall-Wetherby publicly denounced Bishop Barnes in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, last night, as the head of the evolutionary theory. The canon attacked, then marched out, and the bishop gave him a stern rebuke and completely ignoring the rebuke.

Three hundred years ago the canon's method would have been effective. Today it is ridiculous. By his action he revealed the bishop as a student and himself as a comedian, self-centered, pedantic, and unbecomingly.

In another age the mere charge of false teaching carried with it the stigma of excommunication. But in this century the public at large is a crowd, and intelligence is no longer distributed with a large spoon. The knock of yesterday has become a boost today.

MISS MUIR DELIVERED INTERESTING LECTURE ON "THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS"

Two-day night in the Town Hall before an audience of about sixty people, Miss Mui, president of the League of Nations, delivered an interesting lecture on "The League of Nations."

The audience, which included many of the local business and professional men, was held in the Town Hall, where she was met by a large number of people.

At the close of the lecture, the speaker was introduced by the hostess, and she was then introduced by the hostess, and she was then introduced by the hostess.

The speaker first outlined the steps taken to form the League, which grew out of the world war, and the principal aim to change the habit of thought of the nations of the world.

The League. The heads of the sections of the secretariat sat on a second floor, behind the president and among them was noticed Dame Mabel Gurney. The representatives sat at desks on the floor. The Canadian delegates were pointed out, Senator Dandridge, Hon. Charles Stewart and Dr. Selkirk. Women delegates from Great Britain, Australia, Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Roumania. Attention was also called to a Maharajah from India and the Persian Prince.

The assembly is dominated by the small nations, and some of them are being led by the big nations. The speaker first outlined the steps taken to form the League, which grew out of the world war, and the principal aim to change the habit of thought of the nations of the world.

IMMIGRATION SUBJECT OF THE STANFORD W. L. DISCUSSION

At the regular monthly meeting of the Stand-Off Women's Institute, which opened at the home of Mrs. Blakely McNeil, the attendance was rather small on account of the harvest. However, the meeting was an interesting one, and the social intercourse was enjoyed. After the usual opening exercise Mrs. N. W. W. was in a happy mood and the meeting, gave an instructive paper on immigration, dealing particularly with the class of immigrants coming into the country, their value to the country or otherwise. Miss Edna Johnson gave a comprehensive outline of current events which was well received. There was considerable discussion on the forthcoming convention, after which refreshment was served by the hostess. Carpet beating: A method by which a woman transfers dust from one carpet to her hair and lungs. One great reform was consumption, dealing particularly with the class of immigrants coming into the country, their value to the country or otherwise.

Quantity Buying

What is beginning to move to market and farmers will presently be in a position to purchase their winter supplies in quantities for cash. It is a creditable action, an action there is no need to feel just a little bit giddy about, and it is good business, too, to give your local merchant this business if he can meet you in quality and price. He certainly can meet you in service. Give him an opportunity to figure on your requirements. Let him see that you appreciate his carrying your account during the summer. If you do this buying at home you will feel better about it.

Obituary

DEATH OF BRIDGET KENNEDY

The death of (Mrs.) Bridget Kennedy occurred on Wednesday, October 12th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Austin Hareham.

The deceased was 79 years of age and death was the result of age.

Bridget Kennedy was born at Campbell, Ontario, and came to Macleod in the spring of 1918, and had since resided here up to the time of her death. The deceased was a member of the R. C. Church and is deeply mourned by her friends in this town and district.

The funeral occurred from the Holy Cross R. C. Church, Macleod on Friday, October 14th, and interment took place in the R. C. Cemetery, Macleod. The pallbearers were: F. P. Walthe, A. Gagnon, D. O'Leary, J. Muloney, T. Driscoll and P. Strain.

The deceased lady is mourned by Miss Edna Johnson, Mrs. Austin Hareham, Macleod; F. Killen, a brother living at Macleod, and two brothers and a sister in Ontario.

REACH & COMPANY, Ltd.

GENERAL MERCHANTS—DRY GOODS, LADIES' AND MEN'S UNDERWEAR, BOOTS AND SHOES, GROCERIES, VEGETABLES AND FRUITS.

It is no reason, because mostly all of you will benefit by a bountiful harvest and in fact many of you will be well off that you should stop saving. A bank account makes you feel so independent. You can look your children in the eye when you refuse them a thing that they can't have, and say it is all for your benefit. All the money we save now, when our mother and father have died, will be given to our dear children. Reach & Co. are always providing economy, and they practice what they preach. They tell you to look before you buy. And you can often save dollars by doing so. When you go shopping don't make up your mind that you will buy a certain article regardless of cost, but look round first and take a bargain when you see it. This week we are putting a line of handkerchiefs in the window, plainly marked at the manufacturers' own prices—from 5 cents upwards.

Now we have a real bargain for the men. The Murry Shoe Co. make the finest men's shoes in Canada. We always sell their make for five shillings. We just received 50 pairs of colour calf and tan balmorals. We are selling these at cost—$5.00—because they were made with eyes and we bought them for look and eye bargain. This is a man for the enterprising man. Other mugsy merchants are exulting for the asking.
